Meaning of Drafting

In simple terms, drafting is the act of writing legal documents in a proper format, using appropriate legal terminology and ensuring that the content reflects the intentions of the parties involved. It involves the careful selection of the words and phrases to communicate facts, rights, obligations and liabilities in a legally sound manner.

The main purpose of drafting is to ensure that the document can withstand legal scrutiny. It should be free from ambiguity, confusion and contradictions.

Types of Drafting

- 1) Pleading Drafting: Plaints, written statements
- 2) Conveyancing Drafting: Sale deeds, lease deeds
- 3) Commercial Drafting: Contracts, agreements.

Art of Legal writing

Legal writing involves drafting various legal documents such as pleadings, notices, contracts, legal opinions, case briefs and research papers. Unlike general writing, it is governed by legal principles and demands a balance between technical accuracy and reader comprehension.

Importance of Legal writing

1) Communication of law

It bridges the gap between legal theory and practical application.

2) Influences judicial decisions

Clear and logical writing can impact a judge's or authority's understanding of a case.

3) Maintains legal Record

Legal documents serve as permanent records in courts and for clients.

4) Professional Reputation

A lawyer's skill is often judged by their written work.

Principles of Good Legal writing

1) Clarity

Use simple, direct language to avoid confusion.

2) Brevity

Be concise without losing meaning

3) Accuracy

Ensure facts and legal citations are correct

4) Logical flow

Present arguments in a coherent and systematic manner.

5) Persuasiveness

Convince the judge with strong reasoning.

The art of legal writing is a vital skill for every law student and legal professional. It requires consistent practice, a strong understanding of the law, and a refined ability to express ideas in an orderly and impactful manner. Mastering this art not only enhances a lawyer's effectiveness but also strengthens the legal system by promoting clarity and fairness.

Civil Pleadings

Civil Pleadings are formal written statements submitted by the parties in a civil case before a court of law. They form the foundation of any civil suit and help the court understand the claims, defenses and issues involved.

Pleadings are defined under Order VI ~~re~~ Rule 1 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908
"Pleading shall mean Plaint or Written Statement"

Types of Civil Pleadings

- 1) Plaint
- 2) Written statement
- 3) Replication
- 4) Interlocutory Applications
- 5) Affidavit.
- 6) Issues

Pleadings must state material facts, not evidence, must be clear and precise, must follow the format and rules under the CPC

Plaint copy

A plaint is the first pleading filed by a plaintiff in a civil suit. It is a written complaint that sets the legal process in motion in a civil court. The copy of the plaint submitted to the court is known as the plaint copy. It contains the essential facts constituting the cause of action, the relief claimed, and the necessary legal grounds.

Meaning of Plaint

According to the Code of Civil Procedure 1908, the plaint is not expressly defined, but under order VII Rule 1, its contents and format are prescribed. It is the document through which the plaintiff initiates a legal claim in a civil court.

Purpose of a Plaint copy

- (i) To formally bring a civil dispute before the court.
- (ii) To notify the defendant of the allegations against them.
- (iii) To seek specific legal relief

Essential contents of a Plaint copy

As per Order VII Rule 1 of CPC, a plaint must contain:

- 1) Name of the court
- 2) Name and address of the parties
- 3) Facts constituting the cause of action.
- 4) Jurisdiction of the court
- 5) Relief sought
- 6) Valuation for the purpose of court fees and jurisdiction.
- 7) Verification of the plaint.

Note:

Any defect or omission may lead to rejection under Order VII Rule 11

The plaint copy is a foundational document in civil litigation. A well prepared plaint ensures that the case proceeds smoothly and that the plaintiff's claims are effectively presented. Legal professionals must master the skill of plaint drafting to ensure justice is initiated correctly and efficiently.

WRITTEN STATEMENT FILED UNDER
ORDER VIII OF RULE 1 OF CPC

The Defendant specifically submits as follows

1) Preliminary Objections

The defendant denies all the allegations made by the plaintiff except those specifically admitted here in. The suit is not maintainable either in law or on facts and is liable to be dismissed.

2) That it is false to state that the defendant borrowed a sum of Rs.100000/- from the plaintiff on 01-01-2024. No such transaction took place between the parties

- 3) The alleged promissory note is a fabricated and forged document, created by the plaintiff for wrongful gain. The defendant never executed any such document in favour of the plaintiff.
- 4) The defendant never received any legal notice dated 10-08-2024, as claimed. Even otherwise, the plaintiff has no legal right to claim any amount.
- 5) The suit is based on false and baseless allegations. The defendant reserves the right to initiate appropriate legal action against the plaintiff for defamation and misuse of legal process.
- 6) The suit is barred by limitation as no fresh acknowledgement of debt was ever made. The cause of action is imaginary and does not arise at all.
- 7) The court fee paid is incorrect and inadequate. Hence the plaint is liable to be rejected under Order VII Rule 11 of CPC.

PRAYER

wherefore the defendant humbly prays that this Hon'ble Court may be pleased to:

- a) Dismiss the suit with costs
- b) Pass such other and further orders as this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the interest of justice.

Interlocutory Application or Suit for temporary Injunction.

Both Plaintiff and Defendant can file an IA, depending on the situation.

1) Plaintiff files IA

1) When the plaintiff wants temporary relief (like temporary injunction) before the final decision of the court.

ex: The defendant is trying to occupy my land illegally. Please restrain him immediately.

2) Defendant files IA

1) When the defendant wants interim relief or protection, or to vacate (cancel) an injunction granted to the plaintiff

ex: The court gave an interim injunction to the plaintiff, but I am the real owner. Please vacate the injunction.

- 1) IA to vacate temporary injunction (Order 39 Rule 4)
- 2) IA to dismiss the suit (Order 7 Rule 11 of CPC)
- 3) IA for adjournment or other procedural relief
- 4) IA for permissions to file additional documents

Key Difference between:

Aspect	Suit for Injunction	Interlocutory Application
What	Full fledged civil suit	Interim request
Rule	Order 7	Order 39 Rules 1, 2
Purpose	Final relief	Temporary Relief
When	At the beginning of the case	Along with or during the suit

Suit for Injunction Permanently stop the defendant.

IA Temporarily stop him while the case is ongoing.

Note!

i) In the existing suit (as a defendant)

a) The defendant cannot file a plaint
(because a plaint is used to start a suit)

b) But the defendant can file

(i) A written statement (reply to the plaintiffs plaint)

(ii) An IA Interlocutory Application (for interim relief)

(iii) A counter-claim (like a mini suit within the same case)

2) Defendant can file a separate suit as a plaintiff

If the defendant believes his legal rights are threatened, he can file a new suit as a plaintiff seeking.

- a) Permanent Injunction.
- b) Declaration of ownership.
- c) Possession or title protection.

Example :

Situation :

Plaintiff (A) files a suit claiming land ownership and seeks injunction against B (defendant)

B's options

- (i) Defend in that suit (written statement)
- (ii) File IA to vacate temporary injunction
- (iii) File a counter claim (within the same suit) for injunction.
- (iv) Or, file a new suit as plaintiff if separate cause of action exists.
